Fun on the slopes in Hochoetz

Kühtai ski resort

Kühtai has it all – with guaranteed snow from early December until late April, wintersports enthusiasts can make the most of their holidays at Austria's highest-altitude ski resort, located near Innsbruck at 2,020 metres above sea level. Ski right to your hotel doorstep or car park. Ski runs at every difficulty rating cater to a wide range of preferences. Families love the wide slopes. Freeskiers and snowboarders have their home base at the KPark Kühtai with its freestyle arena and Snowcross track, and kids and Funpark beginners can expect plenty of action at the KidsPark. Alternatively, there's tobogganing, night-time skiing, cross-country skiing, snowshoe hiking – you name it.

Hochoetz ski resort

With more than 70 sunny days every winter, you'll want to make your holiday in Hochoetz last as long as possible. From complete beginners to seasoned experts, the extensive and varied network of slopes – all equipped with state-of-the-art lifts - offers something for everyone. While experienced skiers enjoy the more challenging runs, their little ones are well looked after at three ski schools. Several moving carpet conveyors, WIDIs Funpark, various childcare providers and children's theatre plays leave no room for boredom. The WIDIVERSUM is a brilliant place to play even in winter. New winter hiking paths and signposted snowshoe trails are added regularly. A dedicated uphill line from Ochsengarten to Hochoetz makes the route perfect for ski touring.
